DAY OF THE DEAD IN MICHOACAN

FESTIVAL TOUR OF MEXICO

Join us on an extraordinary journey to learn about how Mexicans observe Day of the Dead. We will visit the grave sites and altars that have been decorated to commemorate the return of deceased family members and loved ones. We will learn about the “syncretism” or fusion of the Prehispanic world and the Catholic world that produced a unique form of internalized meaning and outward expressions and symbols. By traveling to small villages, we gently observe this most meaningful tradition that honors the memory of loved ones.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Travel to remote villages to witness the decoration of grave sites and observe the vigil of the Day of the Dead.
- See Artisan Communities on the shores of Lake Patzcuaro.
- Visit the island community of Janitzio.
- Learn of ancient Purepecha ruins at Tzintzuntzan.
- Walk the streets of the Colonial Capital Morelia.
- Travel to the Meseta Purepecha, where few people go

LOCATION

ITINERARY

Day 1:

October 27:

Arrive in Morelia, and transfer to our centrally located hotel. We enjoy a light snack at the Portales, across from the Cathedral, which is illuminated at night! (D)

Day 2:

October 28:

October 28, Today we transfer to Uruapan and the “Meseta Purepecha” a singular region of Mexico, a high tropical plateau, where avocados and macadamia nuts grow. We will arrive and settle into our charming hotel in the center of Uruapan, before heading out to the town of Angahuan, where we will meet community members who will lead us by horseback to the volcanic remains of Parícutin, a volcano that erupted and covered the region with lava, in the 1940’s.

We’ll enjoy a lunch of regional cuisine. Returning to our hotel, we visit the lovely tropical gardens of the Eduardo Ruiz National Park, before enjoying a festive dinner of the local trout, so famous in this region. (B, L, D)

Day 3:

October 29:

Visit “Artesones” temples in the communities of Pomucuaran, Nurío, Cocucho, Zacán and others. Known as the “Ruta de Don Vasco”, we will learn about the work of Vasco de Quiroga and visit the “hospitals” (community centers) and temples erected in the 16th century to support the indigenous communities and Purépecha people. Learning skills that would last a lifetime, the Purépecha people today retain the legacy of Vasco de Quiroga, as we will see. Returning to Uruapan, our evening is at leisure. (B, L).

Day 4:

October 30:

After breakfast at our hotel, we depart for the lakeside town of Patzcuaro. En route, we pay a visit to the local farmers who have been cultivating their marigold fields since May, for the Day of the Dead celebrations. In this lakeside community, you can smell the lake air and the rich earth that combine to produce a bountiful harvest of marigolds. This bucolic paradise is followed by a guided walking tour of Patzcuaro that includes visits to: the Basilica, Large and Small Town Squares, House of Eleven Patios. Dinner at leisure in Patzcuaro. (B, L)

ITINERARY

Day 5:

October 31:

After breakfast, we travel to the lakeside ruins of the Prehispanic Purepecha empire in Tzintzuntzan. Little is known about the early Purepecha people, but it is believed that they are descendants of peoples from northwestern Mexico, known as the Chichimecas. We spend time visiting the present day village and artisans of Tzintzuntzan. From here, we travel to the first community founded in the region, Santa Fe de la Laguna, where we'll explore this small town that looks like it froze in time. We'll enjoy a lunch of regional cuisine. Returning to Patzcuaro, our evening is at leisure. (B, L)

Day 6:

November 1:

We rise before dawn, quaff down coffee and breakfast and head out on our early morning boat journey across Lake Patzcuaro to the island community of Janitzio. We travel early in order to witness the Vigil of the Little Angels, where the souls of children who have died, are visited. Following our return boat journey, we have a free afternoon to stroll and shop in Patzcuaro, and to rest up for our night time departure to witness the all night grave site vigils that take place in the communities surrounding Lake Patzcuaro. It is here that we begin to understand how Mexican people view the concept of life and death.(B, D)

Day 7:

November 2:

On our final day in the Patzcuaro region, we visit the famed copper town of Santa Clara del Cobre. Here, we'll visit the hammered copper workshops to learn of this ancient tradition and craft. In town, we'll enjoy a "corunda" tamale making workshop / demo and enjoy our lunch of these regional delicacies. Finally, we visit the local gravesite to see how the people of this community celebrate by day, by visiting their loved ones, hiring local bands and sharing food, to honor and celebrate the return of their loved ones. Returning to Patzcuaro, our evening is at leisure. (B, L)

Day 8:

November 3:

Today we travel to the gente and conservative city of Morelia, a colonial gem. We make a couple of stops en route before arriving in Morelia where we'll begin our City Walking tour. Morelia is a conservative city with deep traditions in higher education, music and the arts. Highlights include: The Government Palace and Alfredo Zalce Murals, Palace of Justice, Cathedral, Temple of the Roses, the former Aqueeduct, and the outstanding House of Artesanias. We will enjoy a fabulous farewell dinner at one of Morelia's top rated restaurants.(B, D)

Day 9:

November 4:

Depart for Home or extend in Morelia
